National Honor Society Members

Students are recognized for outstanding academic records and exemplary behavior in the areas of leadership, service, and character. Members are required to achieve and maintain a minimum of 3.5 GPA and have no honor code violations.

BRIEF EXPLANATION OF ACADEMIC ATTIRE

The college or university commencement procession is a pageant bright with the dress and ceremony inherited from the medieval universities of the eleventh and twelfth centuries.

There are three principal features of academic attire: the gown, the cap, and the hood.

The Gown: The flowing gown comes from the twelfth century. Many think it was worn in olden times as protection against the cold of unheated buildings. It has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it completely covers any dress of rank or social standing underneath. It is black for all degrees, with pointed sleeves for the Bachelors' degree; long, closed sleeves for the Master's degree, with a slit for the arm; and round, open sleeves for the Doctor's degree. For the Bachelor's or Master's degree, the gown has no trimmings. For the Doctor's degree, it is faced down the front with velvet and has three bars of velvet across the sleeves in the color distinctive of the faculty or discipline to which the degree pertains. Some of the colors most frequently seen and the fields of learning they represent are light blue – education, and red – theology.

The Cap: When Roman law freed the slave, he won the privilege of wearing a cap. And so, the academic cap is a sign of the freedom of scholarship and the responsibility and dignity with which scholarship endows the wearer. Old poetry records the cap of scholarship as square to symbolize the book, although some authorities claim that the mortarboard is the symbol of the masons, a privileged guild. The color of the tassel on the cap denotes the discipline. In some European universities, a pudding-shaped cap – another guild symbol – is worn, a cap similar to the one worn by the great scholar Erasmus.

The Hood: Heraldically, the hood is an inverted shield with one or more chevrons of a secondary color on the ground of the primary color of the college. The color of the facing of the hood denotes the discipline represented by the degree; the color of the lining of the hood designates the university or college that granted the degree.

Their design and heraldry were, from as early as the eleventh and twelfth centuries in the great European universities, the outward sign of the bringing together of students and privileged persons under the same discipline.

To preserve their dignity and meaning, it early became necessary for these universities to set rules for academic dress. Both Cambridge and Oxford, since the fifteenth century, have made academic dress a matter of university control, even to its minor details, and have repeatedly published revised regulations governing it. American universities agreed on a definite system in 1895 and set up a suitable code of academic dress for the colleges and universities of the United States. In 1932, the American Council on Education presented a revised code that, for the most part, governs the style of academic dress today.
